Forthcoming Books

FEBRUARY 8

Let Us Break Bread Together

By Fred D. Gealy. A book of 72 brief communion meditation arranged around the church year . . . linking the traditional concepts of 1st century Christianity with the 20th century patterns of thought. Each meditation includes scripture and closing prayer. Dr. Gealy has written several articles for The Interpreter's Bible. $2.50

MARCH 7

The Message of the Bible

By Charles M. Laymon, editor of the International Lesson Annual. A simple method for reading the Bible with greater understanding. Throughout the book, Dr. Laymon uses biblical passages to illustrate the techniques of reading and comprehension which he has discussed, but leaves the actual interpretation to the reader. $1

APRIL 11

The Growing Minister

By Andrew W. Blackwood, author of Pastoral Leadership. A consideration of the ideals of a minister who keeps growing in Christlikeness while fulfilling his pastoral duties. Dr. Blackwood divides his discussion into two parts: Opportunities to Grow and Obstacles to Growth. Here is guidance and encouragement for every minister. $3

Receiving God's Fullness

By Wallace D. Chappell. God searches for man, says Mr. Chappell, but man must be a willing participant if he wishes to receive the fullness of God's mercy and love. What is envolved in becoming a willing participant is the subject of these challenging sermons, full of illustrations and powerful in their simplicity. $2

Meeting the Test

By Walter L. Cook, author of Meditations for Youth. To help young people cope with the tests that face them, these 44 devotions speak directly to the teenager and his situation, helping him to see the relevance of the Bible to his life. Each devotion has a verse of scripture as its theme and concludes with a prayer. $1.75

Creative Imagination in Preaching

By Webb B. Garrison, author of Why You Say It. Practical suggestions for ministers which show them how to find original ideas for sermons, how to collect sermon illustrations and material, and how to be expressive in their writing. He also suggests how to keep a notebook of ideas and materials. $3

Brothers of the Faith

By Stephen Neill. This is the first account of the struggle for church unity to be told through the biographies of the men who worked for it rather than through the documents and official statements which resulted from it . . . such men as John R. Mott, Nathan Söderblom, William Temple, Willem A. Visser 't Hooft, G. Bromley Oxnam, and others. $4

What Shall We Say About Alcohol?

By Caradine R. Hooton. A positive approach to the question of alcohol. Written especia'ly for the teacher, minister, discussion leader—all concerned with the very real problem of drinking today—this book outlines the basic background information every speaker needs to prepare effective talks. $2

And Jesus Said . . .

By Hoover Rupert. Dr. Rupert examines the informal conversations of Jesus to find answers to the problems of people today. By bringing the reader into the conversation he makes the subjects both meaningful and helpful. He includes a great deal of human interest—plus some good sermon ideas for the minister. $2.50

MAY 9

History of Christianity in the Middle Ages

By William R. Cannon, author of The Redeemer. This book presents a complete picture of eastern and western medieval Christianity. It follows the new trend of writing church history by placing the men and events in the framework of the social and political scene. This realistic manner of presentation shows the church, both eastern and western, in its true relation to the entire culture. Bibliography, chronological table, maps. $4.50

From Abingdon

MAY 9

Ours Is the Faith

By Walter Dudley Cavert, author of Remember Now. A devotional guide for six months, this book stimulates thought about the meaning of the Christian faith and how it can be applied to daily life. Using striking illustrations from many different sources, Dr. Cavert writes in a clear, meaningful style. $2

Lively May I Walk

By Glenn A. Asquith. These 54 devotions are written for older people in contemplation of the fact that the best years of their lives are ahead—and beyond that a far better life awaits them. Each devotion includes a scripture verse, a meditation, and ends with a prayer. Printed in extra-large type. Ideal gift item. $2

The Providence of God

By Georgia Harkness, author of Understanding the Christian Faith. From a human and practical viewpoint, Dr. Harkness seeks to dispel the sense of uneasiness Christians have concerning the efficacy of prayer, the possibility of miracle, and the reality of God's providence by discussing, Does God Really Care? $3.50

Social Sources of Church Unity

By Robert Lee. This unique book presents an analysis of the positive contributions of socio-cultural factors in the rise of the church unity movement—a potent force in contemporary Protestantism. Attention is focused on the sociological bases for unity rather than the theological problems involved. $4.50

Music and Worship in the Church

By Austin C. Lovelace and William C. Rice. One of the most complete discussions of church music available, this study provides a practical understanding of the use of music in all phases of church life and the individual's role in the music of worship. With bibliography, glossary of terms. $4

God's Colony in Man's World

By George Webber. A stimulating and challenging definition of the nature of the church, the doctrine of the ministry, and the meaning of the gospel, based on Mr. Webber's experiences as a minister in the East Harlem Protestant Parish of New York. Also discusses the life of the church and the role of the laity. $2.75

Strength for Living

By Hazel T. Wilson. A diary of daily devotions, arranged in a 31-day cycle, to help men and women have the courage and enthusiasm to live above and beyond the frustrations of the day. Each one includes a verse of scripture, a carefully selected poem or quotation, the meditation, and a prayer. $1.50

Cooking with Hougen

By Richard T. Hougen, author of Look No Further. A new collection of 177 delicious recipes from the famous Kentucky Inn, Boone Tavern, Berea College Hotel, Berea, Kentucky. Included are recipes for breakfast dishes, soups, meats, vegetables, salads, sandwiches, breads, cookies, punch, and desserts. Washable cloth binding. $2.95

The Life Experiences and Gospel Labors of the Rt. Rev. Richard Allen

An Autobiography. This unique volume is being republished in honor of the African Methodist Episcopal Church's 200th anniversary celebration of the birth of their founder, the Rt. Rev. Richard Allen, the first Negro ordained and licensed to preach in America. Contains a vivid account of his life and work and several documents relating to his church's organization. Reissue, Feb. 8. $1.50

4 Important New Titles from Augsburg

MEET THE TWELVE

BY JOHN H. BAUMGAERTNER

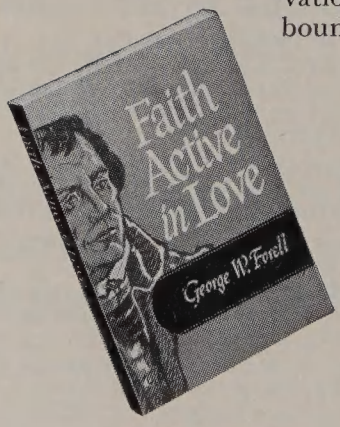

Powerful and penetrating profiles of Christ's Twelve Disciples. In these sketches of Peter, James, John and the other Disciples, the author attempts to establish a real link between the discipleship of the first century and that of today. "A close acquaintance with the Twelve will draw us from the fringes of the circle to Him who is its heart and center." Cloth bound. $2.50

SEVEN TIMES HE SPOKE

BY OLFERT RICARD

Meditations based on the seven last words of Christ lead the reader into deeper reflections on the mysteries of the cross. The death of Jesus is approached from the viewpoint of an intercessory prayer—an intercession that has not stopped. Clear and thoughtful insights into Christ's "finished salvation"—particularly appropriate for Lenten reading. Paper bound. $1.75

FAITH ACTIVE IN LOVE

BY GEORGE W. FORELL

An illuminating volume that both investigates Luther's social ethics and serves to correct the conventional misrepresentations of the Great Reformer's ethical principles. The author uses primary source material extensively in examining the structure of Luther's thought. Hailed by scholars as the best book on Luther's ethics available in any language. This is a new paperback edition.

$2.00

PROPHECY INTERPRETED

BY JOHN P. MILTON

Here is a guide to understanding some of the most fascinating yet least understood portions of the Bible—prophecy and the prophets. The author lays down fundamental principles of prophecy interpretation and then goes on to apply these principles to a specific modern problem—the Biblical basis of Israel's claim to the Holy Land. Cloth bound. $2.75

A Merriam display always pays its way!

All kinds of stores find that prominent display of Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary produces fast and profitable sales. Here's why:

- Webster's New Collegiate is the one dictionary that meets all requirements of school, home, and office.
- Webster's New Collegiate is the one dictionary that is pre-sold to your customers through continuous advertising in Reader's Digest, Life, Time, New Yorker, Newsweek, Atlantic, Harper's, Saturday Review and other leading publications.

Boost your profits now by setting up a counter display of Webster's New Collegiate, the Merriam-Webster! There's nothing like it for turnover, nothing like it for dollars of profit. G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield 2, Massachusetts.

ALEXANDER WILSON'S AMERICA

Selections from the Writings of the Father of American Ornithology edited by FARIDA A. WILEY, with Alexander Wilson illustrations
The finest writing of Alexander Wilson, whose brilliant work on American birds has been unavailable for 75 years. This is No. 6 in Devin-Adair's American Naturalists Series.
416 pages illustrated index May $6.00

THE REAL MUNCHHAUSEN

Authentic Tales by the Fabulous BARON OF BODENWERDER
Retold by his great-great-great-great-great grand niece, Angelita von Munchhausen, illustrated by Harry Carter
In this beautifully illustrated volume, Miss von Munchhausen, after much careful study and research in family records, has attempted to separate those tales which are rightfully the Baron's from the scores of others falsely attributed to him. One story, "The Sleigh of St. Petersburg," has never before appeared in any collection. Gift format. Profusely illustrated.
224 pages slip case May $7.50

THE CASE FOR THE SOUTH

by WILLIAM D. WORKMAN, JR.
A South Carolina newspaperman tells how the average white Southerner feels about States' Rights, race relations, school segregation and other problems brought into focus by the Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation decision.

YOUR MONEY AND WHAT TO DO WITH IT

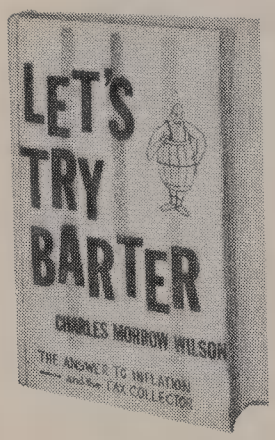

How You and Your Heirs Can Beat Inflation

by GILBERT M. TUCKER, author of The Self Supporting City

This is a primer for the inexperienced in the handling, conserving, and investment of money. It is a concise "how-to-do-it" covering the whole money field in good clear English which the uninitiated can understand.

160 pages index April $3.50

LET'S TRY BARTER

The Answer to Inflation—and the Tax Collector

by CHARLES MORROW WILSON

Written with true Yankee flavor, this is a convincing argument for the revival of an art that could save a lot of grief at income-tax time; that could test your ingenuity and creative instincts and even bring interesting people into your life; that could enable you to survive runaway inflation. It shows you how to swap houses, knick-knacks, and know-how on a large or small scale.

192 pages April $3.95

THE PINTO HORSE

by CHARLES ELLIOTT PERKINS, Foreword by Owen Wister

The reissue of a remarkable horse story which has long been a collector's item. In his foreword, Owen Wister says: "This is the best western story about a horse that I have ever read." Illustrated with drawings, and in an unusually handsome format, the book is a real "find." For all ages.

82 pages illustrated March $4.50

TULAROSA COUNTRY: Last of the Frontier West

by C. L. SONNICHSEN, author of Roy Bean: Law West of the Pecos, The Texas Feuds, and other books.

Fourth in Devin-Adair's Western Americana Series, this is the story of the grim Tularosa Valley—30 miles wide and 200 miles long—which stretches northward from El Paso. The Valley's tumultuous history is told in terms of the great cattle ranchers pitted against daring rustlers; white men against Apaches; desperadoes against lawmen. Years of research have gone into this anecdotal book.

325 pages illustrated bibliography index May $6.00

Up, Into the Singing Mountain. This long awaited sequal to How Green Was My Valley portrays the excitement and adventure of building a Welsh colony in Patagonia. Written with the same startling imagery and lyricism that made How Green so popular. February 4 $4.95

NORMAN ROCKWELL

My Adventures as an Illustrator. Here is the autobiography of the best loved painter in America, whose Saturday Evening Post covers are gems of inspiration and execution. His life story is a marvelously unassuming chronicle and is as entertaining and beguiling as his pictures. February 9 $4.95

JOHN KOBLER

The Reluctant Surgeon. A major biography of an important medical figure, John Hunter, known to few people outside the medical profession. Hunter, a semi-literate Scotsman who lived in the time of Boswell, revolutionized the practice of medicine and became the first great surgeon of London. One of the most exciting biographies Doubleday has ever published. February 18 $4.95

SAYS DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE IN THE PREFACE, "One of the most interesting and entertaining books I've read in many an evening . . . is very laugh-provoking, and I often found myself roaring at the amusing incidents . . . The style is delightful. It's down-to-earth, extremely readable, and it flows along, carrying the reader with interest page after page."

"HOW TO

Use Your Head

TO GET ON YOUR FEET"

by SAM HUFFMAN of CANTON, OHIO

He spent 18 years finding the key to success then retired at 51 with accumulated sales of $5,000,000 in 12 years. Each of 17 breezy chapters punches home a basic rule for success with illustrations from real life that read like fiction. 100 pages—17 comic illustrations.

BEST COOK BOOK BUY OF 1960

With this really best of all cook books, J. B. Lippincott Company is proud to begin its participation in a new publishing program—in association with Britannica Press, a division of Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc. Two categories of books are planned:

1. Kingston House-Lippincott books, which will be books of unusual popular interest, e.g. The "Best-of-All!" Cook Book.
2. Britannica Press-Lippincott books, which will include significant titles, beautifully designed and handsomely produced.

A GREAT COOK BOOK LIBRARY FOR THE PRICE OF ONE BOOK

...the best recipes from more than 100 of the finest cook books, in a single volume

THE "BEST-OF-ALL!" COOK BOOK

Here is your Number One cook book seller for 1960 – and no wonder! Included in this single volume are more than a thousand of the best recipes, carefully selected from the great cook books – not only such classics as LIFE's big Picture Cook Book, Better Homes & Gardens Cook Book, The New Joy of Cooking and the Cordon Bleu Cook Book, but also the finest recipes from regional and specialized collector's cook books that would cost a fortune to assemble.

THE "BEST-OF-ALL!" COOK BOOK, compiled and edited by Florence Brobeck, is a complete cook book. There has never been a cook book like it – or one with such an instant popular appeal. 512 pages, $4.95
Deluxe Edition, $6.95

We believe that those who have been kind enough to say that each of our lists has been better than the ones preceding, will say of this one, "They've done it again."

Mc Dowell,

THE CENTER of the GREEN
by John Bowen

This fine contemporary novel introduces to American readers a writer who has achieved an outstanding reputation in England. "Mr. Bowen has considerable talents as a story-teller. His observation of the details of life everywhere is extraordinarily fresh and beguiling."
—London Times . February 8 $3.50

Previously announced – the fascinating inside story of women's magazines, from Godey to McCall's. May Illustrated $5.00

NOTHING BUT THE BEST

The Tradition of English Craftsmen from Edwardian to Elizabethan

by Thomas Girtin

The entertaining and informative story of the fast-disappearing arts of hand craftsmanship in England. Filled with amusing anecdotes, it's the story of the famous manufacturers of "made-to-order" articles from clothing to canes, from tobacco to candy, and of the foibles and follies of their eccentric patrons.

April Illustrated $3.95

RACERS TO THE SUN

by James B. Hall

A hard-hitting novel of the non-conformist daredevils who ride and race motocycles on hazardous tracks. It's the story of one young man whose life is fatefully changed when he achieves success as a racer—a success that involves him with a thrill-crazy girl and brings this moving story to a shattering climax. May $3.75

KISHI AND JAPAN

The Search for the Sun

by Dan Kurzman

One of the major biographies of the year, this intimate life-story of Japan's Premier sheds fresh light on Japan's history and her important place in the future. Written by a Westerner who knows him personally, it is an accurate picture of Kishi's own development from Samurai to democrat, and of his significant role as a bulwark against Communism. May $4.95

JUGGER

by Sterling C. Quinlan

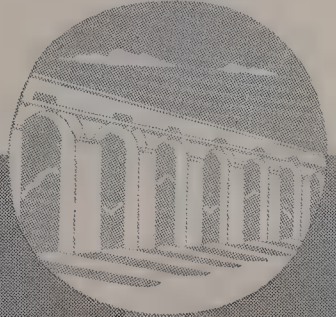

This wonderful warm and entertaining novel is the story of Jugger—a wise and crafty man with a talent for upsetting the respectable citizens of his small up-state New York town. Jugger's independence of spirit, and his battle to stay free when these same citizens decide to send him to the Poor Farm, make this one of the most engaging novels of the year. June $3.95

NEW YORK AROUND THE CLOCK

by Leo Lerman

Illustrated by Laszlo Roth

A unique new pocket-size guide book by a well-known author and bon vivant who knows everything there is to see and do in New York at every hour of the day and night. February, $3.95

Isadora

A Revolutionary in Art and Love. By Allan Ross MacDougall. Was Isadora Duncan the apostle of the free, the uninhibited, the beautiful, or a "Bolshevik hussy"? A man who knew her well separates the myths from the facts (so fantastic they might well inspire myths) in a fine biography of this extraordinary woman. Illustrated with photographs. February, $5.00

The First and the Fifth

By O. John Rogge. The first amendment, says this outstanding lawyer, safeguards the right to speak; the fifth safeguards the right to silence. He cites hundreds of important cases, and ranges over centuries of legal practice to demonstrate his points. March, $7.50

Cocos Island

By Ralph Hancock and Julian A. Weston. Every year new charts appear showing the hiding places of the Cocos Island treasure. Now two men who know the whole story of this famous island off the coast of Costa Rica tell how the hoard came to be there, and of the expeditions that have been sent to find it. Illustrated. May, $5.00

Tay John

BY HOWARD O'HAGAN

A dramatic, robust novel set in the Canadian north woods in the late nineteenth-century — the story of a man who was "a myth to one people and a legend to another, a man who captured the human imagination in a wild northern land where myth and legend flourish." Introduction by Harvey Fergusson. February 18 4.50

Son of the Gamblin' Man

BY MARI SANDOZ

The widely read author of OLD JULES, CRAZY HORSE and THE CATTLEMEN writes what may be her finest—and best selling—book, a moving novel based on the lives of the Cozads: John Jackson, the best faro player in America, and his son Robert, who grew up to be one of America's most important painters and teachers. The scene is Nebraska in the early homesteading days.

The Earp Brothers of Tombstone

BY FRANK WATERS

Based on the dictated recollections of Mrs. Virgil Earp, this is the story of Virgil, Wyatt and Morgan, the three "fighting Earps of Tombstone." A new and realistic portrait of the current TV hero, Wyatt Earp — and a vivid reconstruction of the gun fight in the O.K. Corral. May 12 5.00

To A Young Actress

THE LETTERS OF GEORGE BERNARD SHAW TO MOLLY TOMPKINS

Edited by Peter Tompkins

A major literary discovery, a genuine contribution to Shaviana, and a collection of pungent and witty letters of advice on how to achieve success in the theatre. Shaw's letters to the young American actress, Molly Tompkins, were written between 1921 and Shaw's death. The letters (many of which are reproduced in facsimile) show the master dramatist in a new and brilliant light.

The Hudson River Valley

BY JOHN REED

More than 250 magnificent pictures of the Hudson River Valley, the most brilliant of an immensely gifted photographer's collection of views of America's most romantic river, from its source at Lake Tear of The Clouds to its end in the Atlantic. The photographs and 30,000-word text make this one of the most spectacular picture books ever published. Beautifully produced, size 9" x 12". June 9 15.00

Man's Means to His End

BY SIR ROBERT WATSON-WATT

Important is an over-used word — but this book is, in the truest sense, an important book. Written by the man who, as the "Father of Radar", contributed perhaps the most valuable single technical device of World War II, this is an articulate, alarming report on the weapons that today's scientists have put into the hands of politicians and soldiers. June 30 6.00

For Inspiration, Entertainment

TO SIR, WITH LOVE

By E. R. Braithwaite. Already a best-seller in England and the subject of a highly complimentary Time magazine article here, this is the true heart-warming story of a British Guiana Negro who triumphed over race prejudice and hostility as the teacher of "problem children" in a London slum school. Expect major review attention for this inspiring, candid and timely story.

BY ANTIETAM CREEK

By Don Robertson. The author of the impressive THE THREE DAYS now adds a second novel to his projected Civil War trilogy. The background remains the harsh and terrible field of war, against which the fatal 24 hours of Antietam spring to vivid, shattering life. The novelist's superb story telling technique is punctuated by absorbing details of military action which matchlessly evokes the personal drama and uniform horror of battle.

Unusual Regnery Books ...for Spring

ONE IS ONLY HUMAN
by G. B. Stern

An altogether charming book—and completely different, even for G. B. Stern. A perfect gift book for everyone who likes to think of himself as human, but is not quite sure.
April 18 illustrated $3.50

FROM ENGINES TO AUTOS
by Eugene Diesel, Gustav Goldbeck and Friedrich Schildberger

The story of the development of the internal-combustion engine and its many uses in today's technological world. An ideal book for sports car enthusiasts, engineers and technicians.
April 18 illustrated $8.00

A HUMANE ECONOMY
by Wilhelm Repke

A distinguished Professor of Economics at the University of Geneva puts the competing economic systems of today to the test of moral judgment. His conclusions provide a startling answer to man protecting himself from his own, necessary acquisitiveness.
April 25 $5.00

IMPACT: Essays on Ignorance and the Decline of American Civilization
by Ezra Pound

Praised as a poet and admired as a literary critic, Ezra Pound has been ignored, ostracized, and villified as a castigator of the corrupt and mediocre. In these little known essays, he contrasts the excellence of America in the past with its current decadence.
July 11 $4.00

COLLECTED POEMS, Vol. III
by Roy Campbell

A naturally gifted artist and translator brings the reader the complete spirit of the writings of Garcia Lorca, the plays of many great Spanish dramatists, and innumerable poems of all periods from Spain, France, Portugal and other countries.
April 18 $6.50

NEW REGNERY GATEWAY EDITIONS

DAS KAPITAL, by Karl Marx
Abridged and edited by Serge Levitsky, this edition retains all the essential Marxian doctrine and philosophy in easy to read, comprehensible style.
$1.45

THE LIFE AND WORLD OF GEORGE SANTAYANA, by Richard Butler
A vivid literary portrait of a man whose life and thought aroused two centuries and two continents.
$1.45

THE MYSTERY OF BEING: Vol. I, Reflection and Mystery, by Gabriel Marcel Makes once more available the best introduction to the thought of today's leading Christian existentialist.
$1.45

THE MYSTERY OF BEING: Vol. II, Faith and Reality, by Gabriel Marcel
This volume argues for faith in transcendent reality "simply because it is reality."
$1.45

LIFE ON A POGO STICK

Ken Murray invades publishing with a bang! This, his first and last autobiography, is characterized by the same verve, fun and top-notch entertainment that made the stogie-smoking crew-cut famous all over the country. Ken has had more ups and downs than Ike's helicopter—but in between he became acquainted with dozens of famous stars and personalities. Life on a Pogo Stick is as much about them as about Ken. As Chic Young says in his introduction, "I'm glad Ken decided to become a writer so everyone can read and enjoy his fabulous experiences. You're in for a treat in high adventure and good humor." (Other introductions by Edgar Bergen, Bing Crosby and Ken himself.) Prediction: Sales will only go UP!

FLASH NEWS ABOUT BOOKS AHEAD

Reports About Books To Be Published Two Or More Months From Now

Doubleday will reissue this spring a book published fifty years ago as "Recollections and Letters of General Lee," by his son, Captain Robert E. Lee, Jr., C.S.A. It will be called My Father, General Lee, and will contain a number of portraits of Lee chosen by Philip Van Doren Stern.

Dumas Malone and Basil Rauch have edited a two-volume history of the United States, Empire for Liberty. This set, to be published in April by Appleten-Century-Crofts, will be illustrated with maps and halftones. The two authors are very well known in the field of history.

Ziff-Davis has announced two books by world famous photographers. Philippe Halsman is collecting some of his finest photo-portraits for Portraits by Halsman, and W. Eugene Smith is working on a book of photographs of New York called As I Sometimes Look Out of My Window.

Thomas E. Murray, former Atomic Energy Commissioner, will discuss his plan for dismantling Soviet and American hydrogen bombs in Nuclear Policy for War and Peace, which World will publish in April.

Random House has signed a contract for The Judy Garland Story, in which the actress will tell the full story of her triumphs and bitter disappointments. The book is scheduled for this fall.

Albert Skira, called the world's foremost art publisher, is writing his autobiography for publication by World sometime this fall.

Coward-McCann will begin a new series of major league ball team stories in April with The Los Angeles Dodgers, by Paul Zimmerman, and the Go-Go Chicago White Sox, by Dave Canden. A third-volume in Coward-McCann's previously announced series of books on teams in the National Pro-Football League will be published in August, The San Francisco 49'ers, by Dan McGuire, publicity director for the team. Dan Smith's book on the New York Giants will also be published in August.

Sometime in early 1960, Rutgers University Press will publish White and Coloured, by Michael Banton, a new book on the reaction of Britons to the immigrants in their country.

During the fall, Hill and Wang will publish the first two volumes of The Making of America. The series will cover American history in six volumes, which will be interpretive rather than narrowly factual.

Henry Holt will publish the second volume of Baruch; My Own Story early this year. In this second volume Bernard Baruch tells the story of more than forty years in public affairs.

Ziff-Davis has scheduled for fall publication a biography of the fiery opera singer, to be called simply Maria Callas. It will be written by George Jellineks, an author who specializes in opera and the vocal art.

Richard H. Dillon, author of "Embarcadero," is at work on a book about the famous blue jeans of the west, known as Levis from the manufacturer, Levi Strauss, who has been making them since 1850.

The new novel by Rona Jaffe, author of the very successful "The Best of Everything," is to be called Away from Home. It is set in Rio, and, as one advance reader said, it is chiefly concerned with women worrying about their sex appeal. Simon & Schuster will publish it this summer or early fall.

Abelard-Schuman has announced for fall publication a book by Michael Bullock with the astonishing title, Sunday Is a Day of Incest. We presume it refers to the same thing the little girl meant when she said she liked the Catholic church best because they burned insects there.

One of the chief retirement problems can be summed up by a wife's disturbed remark; "How can I stand having John around the house all day long?" For such wives Mollie Hart has written When Your Husband Retires, which Appleten-Century-Crofts is publishing in April.

Taplinger will distribute the monumental China: Its People, Its Society, Its Culture, by Chang-tu Hu and others, which the Human Relations Area Files Press will publish in April.

In May Bobbs-Merrill will publish Goddess of the Bullring, a biography of the golden-haired Peruvian girl, Conchita Cintron, who became one of the world's most spectacular matadors. It is written by her mother, Lola Verrill Cintron.

There have been plenty of books on retarded and delinquent children, but it is equally important to know how to guide the exceptional child. Helping Your Gifted Child, by Dr. Ruth Strang, which Dutton will publish in April, takes up the proper treatment of these promising youngsters.

In April Bobbs-Merrill will publish a book on Bible archaeology with the catchy title Prophets, Idols and Diggers. It's by John Elder.

The Home Encyclopedia of Modern Surgery, by Dr. James Hale Rutledge, is not a "how-to" book as its title might suggest except that it does explain proper home care of patients before and after operations. Its chief purpose is to aleviate patients' fears. Chilton will publish it in April.

The title of Elizabeth Cadell's June novel, The Yellow Brick Road does not refer to the famous road in Oz but to a figurative road of investigation down which the hero and heroine set off in this mixture of romance and mystery. Morrow will publish it.

FOR the second month "Hawaii" leads all sales, fiction and non-fiction, so easily that it has piled up three times as much volume as any other book in its own field. One reason for this clear supremacy is that our list runs from mid-December to mid-January, which includes much of the Christmas gift sale, and that "Hawaii" was published at just the perfect time to serve as a Christmas gift. Another reason for its comparative strength is the fact that only two big January novels had been published when we made our count of sales and one of those, "Enough Good Men," wasn't published until the eighteenth of January. But "Hawaii" is a leader on more than a comparative basis: its sales have been very good. Next month's count will unquestionably show a post-holiday drop but perhaps no excessive drop.

There are five novels on this list that weren't there last month but only two of them are new; the others are older books.

The two new books are, of course, "Enough Good Men" and "Fuel for the Flame." The former didn't sell quite as well as the latter by a few dozen copies but it did better for its time on the market. "Fuel for the Flame" had Alec Waugh's record of best sellers to help it; "Enough Good Men" was a Literary Guild choice and had the success of "Rachel Cade" to push a good historical novel.

"The Ugly American" and "The Darkness and the Dawn" are last year's books. "The Ugly American" returns to the list on which it occupied a place for so many months, but this is the first appearance of "The Darkness and the Dawn" although it was published in early October. Presumably a week of Christmas sales gave it a lot of volume, because it, too, is an excellent gift book.

"Advise and Consent" rose from fourth place on last month's list to second place —the only book on the fiction list to improve its position. "Return to Peyton Place" dropped from second to third, "Jarrett's Jade" from third to ninth, and "The Devil's Advocate" from seventh to tenth. "Poor No More" remained in sixth place.

Ousted from the list were "Short Term,"

"The Mansion," "Station Wagon in Spain," and "The War Lover."

The closest rivals of the fiction best sellers were "The Case of the Waylaid Wolf," "The Return of Hyman Kaplan," "The War Lover," "The Strange One," and "Station Wagon in Spain" in the order given.

Next month watch out for "The Constant Image," "Two Weeks in Another Town," and "Generation without Farewell."

Non-fiction sales for the month far excelled fiction sales with the sole exception of "Hawaii"—and the surprise best seller, "Folk Medicine," was right on the heels of the number one book on the market. "Folk Medicine," published February, 1958, has been reported on newspaper lists for some time but has never appeared on our own list before. It has been building up volume month by month during the past year. Why it should be so successful is a little difficult to say; we found it fascinating in an offbeat sort of way—and perhaps there are thousands of people for whom medicine has become too strictly a realm of white coats, wonder drugs, and doctors whom you can't reach. Americans are very health conscious, anyway, as the terrific success of diet books, arthritis cures, and other guides have proved. Still and all, it's a bit spectacular for a book published in early 1958 to sell as well as this in early 1960.

It's also very unusual for a book on music to be as successful as Leonard Bernstein's "The Joy of Music." It did not reach the list last month but has made up for the failure by winning second place on the non-fiction list and third place on a combined list. It has sold more than twice as many copies as any novel on the market except "Hawaii."

Only two other new books reached the non-fiction best seller list: "Statuary Rape," the cartoon book, and "May This House Be Safe from Tigers," published on the thirteenth of January or it would have been higher on the list. "Letters from Mamma," published last April, is back on the list.

"Dear Teen-Ager" rose from eighth place on the list last month to fifth place this month, whereas the other repeaters all dropped—"The Longest Day" from second to third, "Act One" from third to fourth, "Your Happiest Years" from fourth to seventh, and "The Status Seekers" from fifth to eight. Off the list entirely are "Christmas Annual 1959," "This Is My God," "The Secret World of Kids," "Groucho and Me," and "The Ape in Me."

The closest rivals of the ten best sellers were "Armada," "Groucho and Me," "Christmas Annual 1959" (on its week or so of Christmas sales), "Elements of Style," and "The Secret World of Kids." The Errol Flynn autobiography, "My Wicked, Wicked Ways," published January 4, came next in line. We believe it will make a much better showing next month.

Sales for the period were just about equal to last year's in fiction but far, far below in non-fiction.

In the public libraries "Poor No More" and "The War Lover" have ousted "Station Wagon in Spain" and "For 2¢ Plain." In the commercial libraries "Exodus" is back on the list. With "Jarrett's Jade" it replaces "The Lotus Eaters" and "The Haunting of Hill House."

"Act One" has had to give up first place on both lists and "Hawaii" has not yet been able to take the lead on either list as it has in sales.

"The Wholesaler— Vital to Our Economy"

BY PERMISSION of the National Association of Credit Management we quote from a tribute to the wholesaler in its "Monthly Business Letter" for November 15.

"Can you imagine what a difficult and expensive situation would exist if the average retailer were compelled to deal directly with hundreds, maybe thousands, of manufacturers for everything he purchases? Reverse the picture and consider for a moment what the situation would be if the average small manufacturer or canning company had to obtain its distribution by calling on thousands of retail outlets. Can you conceive of the inventory problem in a retail store if the owner had to buy direct and place orders for minimum lots distributed by a manufacturer, quantities so small the manufacturer could seldom economically handle them within the limited needs of the retailer?

"The wholesaler, in effect, maintains a warehouse for the distribution of goods to the retail outlets. By dealing directly with the manufacturer he can buy in quantities and his service charge—profit—is in most instances far less than the expense involved if a retailer were to attempt to deal directly with many sources of supply. The wholesaler maintains a reserve inventory for the convenience of the retailer. The retailer can call him and at a moment's notice get any needed quantity of general or special merchandise, irrespective of the size or the amount, and with rapid delivery.

"The modern, alert, and progressive wholesaler is the business counselor and adviser to the retail merchant. His promotional aids and guidance and his educational program for the retailer provide in themselves a service that other organizations could not render as economically as can the well organized wholesaler. He can help materially with suggestions on credit policies and collection practices. He can counsel on costs, mark-up, display, advertising. He can give complete information on new lines being introduced and assist in selection. He will give suggestions on store layout and renovations. He can assist in personnel training. He will save the retailer tremendous expense of freight charges on hundreds of small shipments and the burden of hundreds of checks to be issued.

Best Source of Supply

*"The wholesaler is the retailer's nearest, quickest, most economical, and most dependable source of supply. He acts as a storehouse for many slow-moving items which otherwise would tie up the retailer's capital. The wholesaler's credit manager can advise the retail customer on all matters of finance, insurance, tax, depreciation, interest and investment.

"The wholesaler didn't 'just happen.' Retail stores needed an institution doing the work and rendering the service the wholesaler gives. Because there was a need, the wholesaler came into being. The service to consumer customer by the retailer, the development of maximum profitable sales volume, and the retailer's benefits to the community can be easily traced to the wholesaling system. It is no exaggeration to say that the standard of living in the western area, in the early days, was able to relatively keep pace with that of more populated sections of the country only because there was a good wholesaler on the job.

Need for Wholesaler Continues

"The times have changed but not the need for the wholesaler. . . . Wholesalers are indispensable in our present mass production methods. . . . No greater contribution can be made to the maintenance of small business than to continue and expand the services of the wholesaler."

The Editor's Choice of the Month

SOME ANGRY ANGEL, by Richard Condon

To be published by McGraw-Hill on February 25 at $4.50

There is an explosive vitality in "Some Angry Angel." The author lashes out at hypocrisy, greed, and an amorphous cruelty. He is wickedly imaginative, madly humorous, gay, savage, and compassionate. Who else could invent the fantastic Heneghan, who wore contact lenses so that his eyes could match the color of his suits, or Mrs. Mori Krushen, who threatened to dump her brother's ashes (laboriously brought to her across the Atlantic) into the nearest dustbin? Who else would dare to send his hero into the greatest raid of the war as the result of a drunken stupor? Who else would let a beautiful woman go to her death down an open sewer?

The story is of Dan Tiamat, son of an Irish saloon swamper and a scrub-woman, who was obsessed with a lust for notoriety. He didn't realize it would be his destruction. Dan was a newspaper man and a good one as they go. Then his father-in-law and editor learned of Dan's monstrous infidelity and took vengeance by giving Dan a column. It took ten years for Dan to reach the top—ten years of buying a nod from the pretenders and rogues and sadists in high places, ten years of drinking too much, ten years of an arrogance that covered up his inside fear that this could not really be he, the slum child.

And after ten years, some angry angel, as the author puts it, threw a rock and struck Dan down, turning the internationally known columnist into Miss Friendship . . . A ghastly joke? Not quite, because "Some Angry Angel" has the inevitability (and much of the beauty) of a Greek tragedy. I recommend it.

Introducing Next Month's Books

IN FICTION the top book for February is undoubtedly "Ourselves to Know," by John O'Hara (Random, Feb. 27, $4.95)—for the first month at least. O'Hara has the name and the proved performance of the past that guarantees advertising and sales. "Ourselves to Know' is not likely to set any new records for its author but it won't be a disappointment, either. The story is of a man who has murdered his wife and recalls his life to explain just why he killed her.

Next we'd put 'The Lincoln Lords," by Cameron Hawley (Little, Brown, Feb. 25, $5.00)—the Literary Guild selection for March. This, too, is by a known author, though Hawley is not in the O'Hara class. We liked the novel much better than "Cash McCall." It tells the story of a top-salaried executive out of a job, and his new position with a company that forces him to prove himself. Though it may not outsell "Executive Suite" it will quite certainly be well toward the top of the list.

"Chatauqua," by Day Keone & Dwight Vincent (Putnam, Feb. 25, $3.95), is perhaps the most dangerous rival of "The Lincoln Lords," even though the authors are unknown. It is a very slick novel on the general style of "State Fair" — not quite as sensational as "Peyton Place" but with many of that novel's ingredients. Its small girl, Carole, wins the reader's affection, however, and though Carole's mother is a sort of prostitute (unknown to her husband), the reader can understand her restless urge to get away even if he can't condone her method. Indeed, one of the chief virtues of "Chatauqua" is its likeable characters. They seem like real people rather than delinquents from a nightmare world. And things turn out fairly happily. It's readable and it will sell in very large quantities.

Howard Spring's long chronicle-novels always sell, and "All the Day Long" (Harper, Feb. 17, $4.95) will be no exception. Maria tells the story of her family for some fifty years, with all the ramifications of family life and a host of characters. It is not a plot novel but Spring's followers do not demand plot.

Very close to these leaders will be two "adventure" novels. Of these "The Durian Tree," by Michael Keon (Simon & Schustern Feb. 26, $3.95), was announced for January and was our Editor's Choice last month. It was postponed so that Simon & Schuster could give it more of a build-up. It will be promoted well and in our opinion should justify the Essandess confidence in it. "Night Without End," by Alistair MacLean (Doubleday, Feb. 22, $3.95), is a real thriller about a plane down in Greenland, far from help, with injured passengers aboard and the certainty that two of the passengers are murderous spies.

By a one-time top author is "Up, into the Singing Mountains," by Richard Llewellyn (Doubleday, Feb. 4, $4.95). We have called it a good seller on the strength of "How Green Was My Valley," to which this book is a sequel. But it is not set in Wales nor does it have quite the poetic charm of the earlier book. By now Huw Morgan, a boy in "How Green Was My Valley," has settled with other Welshmen in Patagonia. They talk as they did in Wales and they live—or try to—as they did in Wales, but Huw is now grown up and is facing new problems in a more prosaic fashion.

Besides these seven there are a surprising number of "better than average" fiction offerings, any one of which might prove to be a surprise seller. A few are definitely possible rivals for the top ten. Among these is "Grandpa and the Girls," by Louis Heyward (Random, Feb. 21, $3.50), a gayly humorous story of a Jewish patriarch who visits his madam daughter, Dora, in her fancy house under the innocent impression that the girls are simply boarders. "Don't Raise the Bridge," by Max Wilk (Macmillan, Feb. 15, $3.50) is the hilarious story of an ex-con man in

New England who tries by every crafty maneuver at his command to hold onto his Green Haven Inn in spite of debts and his ex-wife. It's Macmillan's candidate for big sales. "Right You are, Jeeves," by R. G. Wodehouse (Simon & Schuster, Feb. 18, $3.50), is a known quantity, sure of good sales. So, too, is "Prize Stories 1960: O. Henry Awards," edited by Mary Stegner (Doubleday, Feb. 18, $3.95). By authors of previous good sellers are "The Curtain Falls," by Maurice Druon (Scribner, Feb. 29, $4.95); "Thounder Heights," by Phyllis A. Whitney (Appleton-Century-Crofts, Feb., $3.95): "The Land Beyond the Tempest," by Drayton Mayrant (Coward-McCann, Feb. 22, $3.95); "The Men of Gonzales," by John H. Culp (Morrow, Feb. $3.50); "Johnny Osage," by Janice Holt Giles (Houghton, Mifflin, Feb. 15, $3.75); and "The Big It and other Stories," by A. B. Guthrie, Jr., (Houghton, Mifflin, Feb. 18, $3.50).

Four good books are by completely or comparatively unknown authors. All four are challenging, each in a different way, and any of the four may sell very well. "Some Angry Angel," by Richard Condon (McGraw-Hill, Feb. 25, $4.50), is a very hard-hitting story of a newspaper man. It is our own special recommendation of the month. "Look to Your Geese." by Jacquin Sanders (Putnam, Feb. 5, $3.75), is a rather roguish novel of bigotry in Puritan New England. Its author has had two previous novels published, both of them unorthodox, without signal sales success, but perhaps this one will break through to public recognition. "The Hiding Pace," by a very handsome actor, Robert Shaw, (World, Feb. 16, $3.50), is another imaginative novel. It tells of a mouselike Nazi who holds two airmen prisoners in his cellar for some twn years, during which time one of the men dreams of his wife while the other spends his time writing. Obviously a tour-de-force, it is very well written and rather surprisingly interesting. Fourth of these novels is "Sunset at Sheba," by John Harris (Morrow, Feb. 17, $3.50), a tense chase tale set in Africa.

Fiction overshadows non-fiction for the month. In this latter category the top book seems to be "Grant Moves South," by Bruce Catton (Little Brown, Feb. 4, $6.50). This is a superlative historical narrative describing Grant's Civil War campaigns. It will probably be a best seller on publication and will sell for a long, long, time.

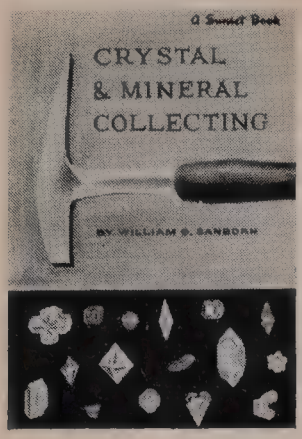

"The Enemy Within," by Robert F. Kennedy (Harper, Feb. 24, $3.95), is a report of the Senatorial investigation into union leaders and their methods and their link with organized crime. Though there is nothing new in the book, it does provide a permanent and very readable way for John Doe (even the union members) to find out what is happening to industry.

Probably a great many people will disapprove of "Not for Love," Virginia McManus' story of her years as a school teacher and her entering the call-girl business (Putnam, Feb., $3.95—postponed at the last moment to March 25). But thousands will want to read it. Nor does it belong in the Polly Adler "A House Is Not a Home" school. It is well written, cynically humorous, without self-pity, sensationalism, or maudlin apology. Miss McManus should be able to make a living with her typewriter judging by this sample.

"Dear Folks," by Juliet Lowell (Putnam, Feb. 19, $2.95), is a collection of letters from children at camp, at school, etc. Some are bloomers, some are amusing revelations of juvenile misunderstanding, and a few will raise the conservative reader's eyebrows. These gems should hit the best seller list or near it.

Prentice-Hall is betting on "To Sir, with Love," by E. R. Braithwaite (Feb. 24, $3.50), a British Guiana Negro's book about his experiences as a teacher in a London slum and his conquest of the children in spite of their prejudice and initial hostility. It's well done.

And then there's "For Victory in the Peaceful Competition with Capitalism," by Nikita S. Khrushchev (Dutton, Feb. 29, $3.95), with a special introduction by the author for the American edition. This will be a bit of curiosa rather than anything else but it will sell to many.

Picture and Easy Reading

BENNY'S FLAG $2.50
Phyllis Krasilovsky World
This little true story is very effective in picturing the origin of the Alaskan flag. From a mission home came the winner of the contest to design Alaska's flag. Benny, an Indian boy, shy and quiet, had decided on using blue for the Alaska sky and the forget-me-not flower and the North Star and the dipper. And on the Fourth of July in the village parade Benny marched at the head carrying the flag he had designed—now Alaska's flag. There is a long list of Alaskan associates that the author has dedicated this account to as "the stars and forget-me-nots of our Alaska." Illustrated by W. T. Mars. Ages 6 to 9. Feb. 29.

BLUE'S BROKEN HEART Lib'y Ed. $3.00
Jean Merrill & Ronni Solbert
Dr. Thomas, the animal doctor, was a very busy man. His house was close by the edge of the woods and all the animals came to him for help. Broken legs, necks, jaws, and skinned knees were all bandaged. Can you imagine the amount of bandage needed for the giraffe's broken neck? In line, waiting his turn, was Blue, a little dog. When Blue was examined the doctor thought he looked all right—but Blue had a broken heart. Since broken hearts are hard to fix, Blue had to live for a while with the doctor. Blue wore a bandage and at first just talked about his sore heart. All the animal patients were so nice to Blue that he himself soon started to help the doctor. The doctor knew how to cure his heart and he did. A clever tale affectionately told. Ronni Solbert is the artists Ages 4-8. Feb 10.

HYMIE'S FIDDLE $2.50
Mel Silverman World
Reality and warmth are found on every page though "Hymie the Dreamer," as irate neighbors begin to call him, happily and hopefully follows every dream that comes along. The setting is a street in the lower east side of New York City. Mel Silverman has ably caught the picture of this street of push carts with its very own people, both in his writing and illustrations. The black and white illustrations were reproduced from original lithographs on stone. The plot, as it develops, after awhile concerns Hymie's ability to play the violin. His little tag-along sister, Penny, firmly believes him to be the genius he thinks he is. Professor Noodle's lessons are quite a fraud. There is almost serious misfortune as both the children parade through the city streets with the violin. Rewards are always his Mother's hot pretzels. Each chapter or little episode runs a brief length—just two pages with the drawings, too. Ages 6-9. Feb. 15.

THE OLD PONY $2.50
Dorothy Clewes Coward-McCann
All kids dream of owning ponies and Rory, Kay, and Gerald were no exceptions. They loved the milkman's pony, which he called "old girl." Rory called the pony a secret name—White Star. When the milkman said White Star was getting too old to work and would have to go to the knackers, the kids stole her to save her from this desperate end and hid her in an old shed. What they didn't know was that White Star was about to have a little foal! Everything ends well when Little White Star is born; no one presses charges for the theft, and the pony instead of going to the knackers is sold to a riding school. A bit too sweet and hinging somewhat on the impossible, the story still sticks together and will probably be enjoyed by young children of six to nine. Good print. Black and white illustrations. Feb. 4.

THE SECRET HIDING PLACE $3.00
Rainey Bennett World
Now a baby hippo can be lovable and act just like any small child. Little Hippo could feel as cross as could be when he was constantly sheltered and pampered. Never left to himself, he was always surrounded by all the other hippos—and there were quite a few that took fond and loving care of the baby. "Don't go in that tall grass where zebras hide. Do you want to catch stripes?" Little Hippo wanted to be by himself,but when the chance came, in a game of hide and seek, the lion's cave proved too dark and scary. The chameleon discovered the perfect spot for little Hippo to hide. A very appealing story with illustrations by the author that match perfectly. Rainey Bennett deserves a few cheers and commendations for "The Secret Hiding Place." Ages 4-8. Feb. 15.

THE FABULOUS FLYING BICYCLE $2.75
Glen Dines Macmillan
Jerry and Vic have their usual (or unusual, depending on how one views such events) good romp in this latest of Glen Dines' amusing books. Jerry is no mean inventor himself. Great gyrating gyroscopes if he isn't. He invented a newspaper-launcher that sorta got out of control and broke a window, and a wire-controlled satellite that almost beheaded him, but it was fun! Jerry and Vic are good friends of the ice-cream man, Mr. Happy. Actually he is a great inventor of such things as sound elevators, 5 ft. TV sets, universocopes, visiospecs, and some invisible material called transoplastic. When the fabulous flying bicycle rides up the invisible transoplastic ramp at the country fair, funny things happen. A really good story that will delight kids immensely. Just fantastic enough to make one wonder, but real enough to make one believe. Ages 8-12. Feb. 22.

HOW TO GROW HOUSE PLANTS $2.50
Millicent E. Selsam Morrow
Lots of boys and girls have green thumbs. This book will make them greener and may even add a little color to those which are plain white. Plants which are house grown need special conditions similar to those which they had when they were outdoors. To live, all plants need water, light, minerals, air, and proper temperature, and the author explains each of these necessities. There is even a section on sick plants and what to do for pale foliage, stringy stalks, and the like. A good list of plants called "Toughies" is included—spider plant, cast-iron plant, chinese evergreens, philodendron, and others are mentioned. There are ideas for containers like drift wood for bromeliads and small gardens for tiny pottery pieces. What will probably happen to this book is that even more adults than children will read it! It is simply written with good vocabulary for children, but the subject matter will interest all. Ages 10-14. Feb. 24.

THE INCA: Indians of the Andes $2.50
Sonia Bleeker Morrow
What a fascinating people the Incas were! One of the three greatest Indian civilizations in the Americas, they flourished a brief one hundred years, starting in 1438. In 1532 Pizarro and a handful of Spanish soldiers came, and in 1533 the Inca Empire was almost totally destroyed. Manco Capac was believed to be the founder of the Incas, a descendant of the Sun God. The civilization was based on a triangle with the emperor at the apex and farmers and craftsmen at the base. There were noblemen, over 500 people, and overseers who kept tabs over every 100 citizens. The Incas were warlike, and their empire grew as they divided their enemies and conquered them. Their rather extensive provinces were held together by strict rule and a system of roads enabling messengers to travel twelve hundred miles in five days. The people were artistic and did outstanding work with clay, woven threads, metal, and stone. In architecture they were almost modern, putting great store on the strictly functional. The emperor was considered so holy no one could touch his left-over food. Even the dishes he used were destroyed. The last of the emperors, Tupac Amarv, was beheaded in 1571, but even today there are legends that the Inca will be restored. There are those who have hidden treasure, and others who keep the Inca language and religion pure. Although there is nothing startlingly new in this book, it does present the material well. Should be an interesting book for boys and girls studying this part of history. Ages 8-12. Feb. 24.

JENNIE'S MANDAN BOWL $2.75
Lyla Hoffine Longmans, Green
Jennie Youngbear led a happy life with her family on a ranch near the Missouri River. Grandmother, with all Indian ways, especially made Jennie's life happy. Legends and stories of Indians were recounted to Jennie, yet she did not feel proud enough of her heritage. In the outside world and in school Jennie was so shy that she could not recite. It was the teacher's idea for Jennie to spend her summer learning how to make special Indian pottery. The plan worked. The everyday life of Jennie and her family illustrates the circumstances and feelings of Indians today in this particlar region. Larry Toschik is the illustrator. Children may have to be introduced to this book, but they will be rewarded with a warm feeling for Jennie and her kin when they do. Ages 8-12. Feb. 24.

THE STORY OF YANKEE WHALING $3.50
Irwin Shapiro (narrative) Golden Press
This American Heritage Junior Library Book is a real beauty. Just to look at it is to want it! The illustrations are numerous and even alone impart much information. There are old prints, charts, detail drawings, photographs, and reprints of full-color paintings all beautifully reproduced. The written material is well authenticated and makes exciting reading. The whaling ships were graceful and sturdy, built for work not speed. They left the ports of Nantucket, New London, Sag Harbor. and were away for years at a time. The men aboard lived a life of adventure—adventuresome to the point of death very often. Above them all was the captain, absolute authority on his ship, responsible for thirty to sixty thousand dollars worth of equipment and the lives of all of his crew. The foreword states that "history was never meant to be a dull record of the past. It should be a dramatic re-staging of life itself." This book creates that dramatic re-staging. It is highly recommended. Ages 11 up. Feb. 1.

GETTING TO KNOW NIGERIA Each, $2.50

GETTING TO KNOW JAPAN

These are the latest books in the series and are all very good in introducing these countries to young readers. Their style is simple and the material well presented. They make no attempt at telling everything, but they do an excellent job in giving a general over-view of the land and peoples. Each has an outline of history and a good reference list for further reading. We have taken the one on Japan as being representative of all the books.

Japan is a small country in physical size composed of four main islands and hundreds of tiny ones. The population is nearly one half that of the United States. This creates problems involving food and shelter. Many of the customs are ancient and although new ones are rapidly replacing the old these customs still persist, particularly in the small villages. In their small homes 10 or 15 people may live together, for the family is very important. Respect for the oldest is a rule of family courtesy, and the grandmothers hold a great deal of power, frequently deciding who shall marry whom. There is interesting material here on history, customs, family life, religion, transportation, cities, volcannoes, etc. One of the best sections is the write-up of an actual visit to a Japanese home.

All these books are recommended for school and libraries, and for the individual who has a special interest in the country. Ages 8-12. Feb. 4 is the publication date for Japan and Nigeria, Feb. 25 for Israel, and Feb. 26 for Brazil.

Teen Age

PROMISE TO LOVE $2.95
Viola Rowe Longmans, Green
These youngsters are pretty sensible and level headed when it comes down to that old problem of going steady. Barbara knows how her father feels on this subject, but then it doesn't much matter because a series of misunderstandings separates Barbara and Chuck just when he brings out the friendship rings. Barbara makes other friends and her crowd changes partners—lots of girl talk, too. The subject and scene are familiar ground to any teen-age girl. There are involvements, a separated family nearby, her kid sister growing up, and a decision to aid or hinder an elopement. Girls will like "Promise to Love." It is written with an approach to maturity for these readers. Teen ages. Feb. 24.

Same Subject—Different Age Levels

GOOD DIGGING: Story of Archaeology $3.50
Dorothy & Joseph Samachson Rand McNally

MAN IN THE MAKING $2.95
Estelle Friedman Putnam

There are two new books for children in the field of archaeology—good books full of the high adventure of this study. Exciting reading too.

In "Good Digging" it says that archaeologists are treasure seekers. Often the treasures represent greater historical value than financial gain, though the golden souvenirs of kings' tombs do sometimes come to light. Dating bones and artifacts was a problem to the early archaeologist. For some time dates were established by identifying rock strata, or glacial deposits. Now carbon 14 is used. This substance is found in all objects. By measuring its rate of decay, which is very slow, scientists have a good idea of the antiquity of what they test. The content of this book deals not only with the science but also the romance of the subject. Imagine Champollion's joy when he discovered the secret of the hieroglyphics on the Rosetta stone; the excitement of entering King Tut's tomb; of deciphering the Dead Sea Scrolls! Men in this field frequently impair their health, defy superstition, and scare their wives half to death, but they go on. If you are so inclined, read the chapter on preparing for an expedition and be off! This book will make you want to. Ages 12-16. Feb. 22.

"Man in the Making" is the study of the slow development of man down through the ages. That study is far from complete. There are many unknown "links," and scientists try to find them. Layers of sandstone, shale, and linestone are the places to look for fossils, which tell part of the story. For centuries man believed that human beings had never existed before 4004 B.C., and even today there are doubts about his origin. One of our ancestors who lived about 75 million years ago was a tiny four-legged creature who lived in trees and ate insects. The author traces man from this earliest of mammals. There are chapters on Children of the Sea, The Mystery of Skeletons. A Thousand Centuries in a Cave, The Forger and the Fossil, etc. Ages 10-14. Feb. 26.

HAWAII, FIFTIETH STAR $3.95
A. Grove Day Duell, Sloan and Pearce

MEN AT WORK IN HAWAII $2.50
Harry C. Rubicam Putnam

Both these books, though different in approach and material, are timely. They provide a good bit of information on our beautiful newest state.

"Hawaii, Fiftieth Star" is for the older child and presents more general information on the islands. The early Hawaiians were a hospitable people. If a stranger departed hungry, shame descended on the host. Entire villages contributed to a commonly owned field of vegetables and taro for the use of any family when special visitors came. Many things changed with the coming of the white man. After Captain Cook's body was hacked up and each chief given a piece, the English, French, Russians, and Americans all showed an interest in this fabulous place. King Kamehameha's pagan religion ("These are our gods which I worship. . . . I follow my religion which cannot be bad since it teaches me no wrong") gave way to the missionaries and great changes took place in education, social life, and ways of making a living. There is an index, a list of facts on Hawaii, a list of government heads, and a key to pronunciation. Very well written and quite absorbing. Ages 12 up. Feb. 10.

"Men at Work in Hawaii" is for the younger reader (Ages 8-12), and as the title suggests the focus is on ways of making a living. Since Hawaii is blessed with a good climate and rich soil many agricultural crops are raised. One million tons of sugar are produced each year as well as 30 million cases of pineapples. Nuts, bananas, coffee, and cattle are also large industries. The tourist trade is the third largest business and growing every year, and one fourth of the population is engaged in National Defense. There are eighteen chapters in this well written book, which is illustrated with photographs. Feb. 26.

News from Publishers

GROVE PRESS has announced that it will be the American publisher for a projected parallel history of the United States and the Soviet Union from 1917 to 1960. This history, to be published simultaneously in seventeen countries in 1962, is being written by two French men of letters, André Maurois and Louis Aragon. M. Maurois has undertaken to record America's achievements in the years following World War I, and M. Aragon has agreed to present the development of the Soviet Union in that same period.

The highlight of a four-day schedule of business meetings and cocktail parties for members of the book industry will be the presentation of the National Book Awards at a special ceremony on Wednesday, March 23. This year, the 11th in the history of the Awards, special effort has been made by the National Book Committee, administering the Awards for three industry organizations, to keep the names of authors and their winning selections secret until they are announced at the ceremony.

Frank G. Goodall, formerly associated with Prentice-Hall as a field representative in Southern California, will supervise a territory including New York, the Midwest, Texas, Arizona, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Idaho, eastern Oregon, Washington, and California, for Lane Book Company, which recently appointed him its sales manager.

Andrew Ettinger has been named publicity and rights manager of Hawthorn Books. Mr. Ettinger, a graduate of Boston University, has done work in educational TV and served with the American Mercury as an associate editor prior to joining Hawthorn.

As of February 1 World Publishing Company will act as exclusive distributor for all Skira publications. The new arrangement will not affect distribution of Universe Books, which receives orders at 381 Park Avenue South, New York 16, and also ships books from New York.

Taplinger will take over from Columbia University Press the distribution of the International Conciliation pamphlets and other booklets published by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

Medical Books for Children, recently-organized publishing company of Minneapolis, has appointed McCauley Enterprises, Greenwich, Connecticut, as its sales representative. The new firm has brought out four books written by a teacher of dermatology, Dr. Marguerite Rush Lerner, to satisfy children's curiosity about childhood diseases and doctors, "Dear Little Mumps Child," "Peter Gets the Chickenpox," "Michael Gets the Measles," and "Doctors' Tools." Illustrated in color by George Overlie, all the books sell for $2.75, except "Doctors' Tools," which is priced at $1.00.

American Photographic Book Publishing Company, Inc., oldest photographic books publisher in America, has designated Hastings House sole distributor of its Amphoto Books in the United States. Hastings House will also distribute a number of titles for a leading international publisher of books on photography, Focal Press, Ltd., London.

On January 18 George M. McCorkle assumed the post of vice-president in charge of a wide range of administrative activities and editorial planning with the New American Library of World Literature. Mr. McCorkle was a member of the board of directors of Charles Scribner's Sons, and served as assistant to the president and vice-president of that company. Victor Weybright and Kurt Enoch continue as chairman of the board and editor-in-chief, and president, treasurer, and general manager of New American Library, respectively.

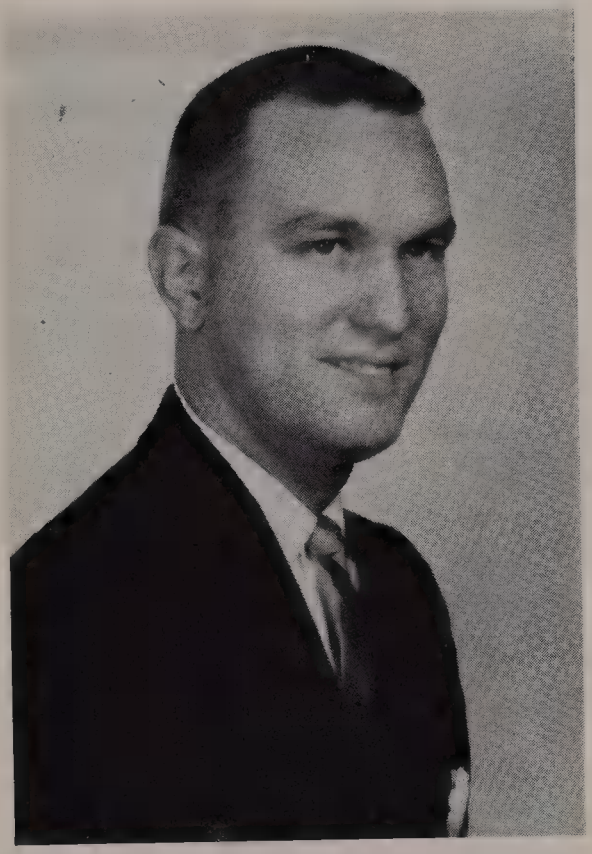

Clyde P. Peters has been appointed director of sales and advertising for the Military Service Division of The Stackpole Company, Harrisburg, Pa. In this post Mr. Peters will direct the promotion of all of Stackpole's new technical military titles and of over 100 books formerly published by The Military Service Publishing Company, with which Stackpole consolidated early last year.

Leonard Schwartz has been appointed executive vice-president of Brentano's, Inc. The new vice-president in charge of merchandising is Lillian Friedman. Gertrude Laub has succeeded Miss Friedman as book buyer for the organization. In the spring Brentano's will open two new stores in New Jersey, one at Paramus and another at the Monmouth Shopping Center in Eatontown.

The New York State Association of Elementary School Principals has honored Dorothy Horton McGee and Walter D. Edmonds with a Certificate of Award for the outstanding work they have done in the field of literature for children. Miss McGee and Mr. Edmonds have written a number of Americana books for young readers for Dodd, Mead & Company.

"A Hundred Hills," Howard Breslin's historical novel about the long siege of Vicksburg, will be a Dollar Book Club selection some time this year. Crowell will publish "A Hundred Hills" on March 7.

David McKay's promotion device for the 100,000th copy of its best-selling "The Status Seekers," by Vance Packard, made a substantial Christmas gift for Lois C. Meier of Philadelphia. Miss Meier found the letter which had been inserted into copy 100,001 of "The Status Seekers" guaranteeing $100.00 to the finder provided he sent in answers to two questions in the letter. In her reply of December 23, Miss Meier explained that she had bought the book, recommended by an instructor at New York University where she is studying for her doctorate, after having failed to obtain it from public or university libraries.

Clyde P. Peters, the new director of sales for Stackpole's Military Service Division

The National Publishing Company, whose subsidiary company is the National Bible Press, has announced that it will move from the site it has occupied at South American Street, Philadelphia, since 1890, to a larger, more modern plant in mid-town Philadelphia. The transfer will be made slowly, so that service will not be interrupted. The new plant covers 200,000 square feet of manufacturing space.

The Donner Foundation of Philadelphia has donated $7,000 to help pay for the 2,800 books which were rushed by plane to the 1959 American National Exhibition in Moscow, where Russian visitors had carried away the books displayed in the American Library Association bookmobile. John C. Bullitt, nephew of William Bullitt, former U. S. ambassador to Russia, conceived the idea for the airlift and guaranteed payment for the books, which were supplied in one day from the stockroom of The Baker & Taylor Company and flown to Russia that evening.

The Children's Book Council is offering an advance order service to help publicize the books which will win 1959's Newbery and Caldecott Medals for outstanding contribution to children's literature and the most distinguished picture book, respectively. The awards will be announced on March 14, but libraries and bookstores may order before February 16 and receive the winning selections by the day of the announcement. In addition, the Council now has available a display kit and slit cards with general Newbery-Caldecott promotion. General information on the awards can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Children's Book Council, 175 Fifth Avenue, New York 10, New York.

More than 7500 copies of the Organization Handbook for 1960 have been sent to libraries, state directors, and national organizations participating in National Library Week. The booklet contains much new material on developing programs for observation of the Week, particularly in the area of teen-age reading, which will receive special emphasis this year. A complete collection of promotion aids, such as a religious kit, posters, mobiles, bookmarks, table tents and place mats, etc., is now available. Further information and price lists can be obtained by writing for Promotion Aids Brochure, National Library Week, 24 W. 40th St., New York 18, N. Y. Deadline for all orders is March 15.

The John C. Winston Company, as part of the celebration of its 75th anniversary, contributed $3,000 toward a four-year scholarship to the Philadelphia Museum College of Art. The grant, presented to Dean E. M. Benson of the College by Winston's president, Charles F. Kindt, Jr., is intended to help young illustrators who might enter the field of textbook art.

Pergamon Press, Inc., scientific publishing house with branches in Paris, Frankfurt, Milan, and Los Angeles, has added a bureau in Washington, D. C., to be directed by Detlev J. Raymond, who has served for the past ten years in Pergamon's main offices in New York and London. Pergamon handles the publications (all sold at very short discounts) of such prominent organizations as UNESCO, the Geophysics Research Directorate, the Air Force Office of Scientific Research, and the Advisory Group for Aeronautical Research and Development of NATO. In 1960 the company will publish approximately 200 books in science, technology, and medicine.

In March George Braziller will publish "The Dinner Party," by Claude Mauriac, well-known French movie critic and son of the famous François Mauriac, winner of the Nobel Prize. As "Le Diner en Ville," Claude Mauriac's novel recently was awarded the Prix Medicis of France.

Coward-McCann has named John J. Geoghegan editor-in-chief. Mr. Geoghegan was made director of the adult trade department and a vice-president of the company last year. In addition Robert E. Mabry has been promoted from assistant editor to editor, and Gerald M. Simon, formerly associated with Little, Brown and Henry Holt, has become an editor with Coward-McCann.

David Merrick, prominent theatrical producer whose list of hit Broadway musical ventures includes "Gypsy," "Destry Rides Again," and "Take Me Along" (adapted from "Ah, Wilderness!" by Eugene O'Neill), has purchased Ben Lucien Burman's "The Street of the Laughing Camel" and will turn it into a musical for the Broadway stage. McGraw-Hill published the best seller by Mr. Burman last fall.

D. Van Nostrand Company, Inc., moved to its new Manhattan address, 24 W. 40th Street, New York, 18, on January 28. The company's main office is still in Princeton, New Jersey, at 120 Alexander Street, and its new warehouse is located on Alexander Road off Route 1, in Princeton.

New Executives for Baker & Taylor

PRESIDENT WILLIAM A. HUNTER of The Baker & Taylor Co. has announced the appointment of a new vice president, Mr. B. D. Spain, effective January 11. More administrative help has been needed to take care of the company's rapidly expanding business, and Mr. Spain is eminently qualified by experience to share executive responsibilities. He has most recently served as operations manager of the Wilson Jones Co., manufacturers of blank books, diaries, forms, and the like. He has had full charge of the company's factory in Elizabeth and its New York warehouse. Previously he had started as stock boy for Montgomery Ward and had, during eighteen years, worked as clerk, and in its merchandising, packing, billing, and warehousing departments and finally as manager of the Kansas City mail order division before joining the Wilson Jones Co.

Nat. G. Bodian has been appointed sales manager to fill the position left vacant by Alan T. Tekirian. Mr. Bodian, formerly with the C. E. Shepard Co., of New York, has been active in sales promotion for the past fifteen years. A graduate of the School of Public Relations, New School for Social Research, he also attended City College of New York and Essex Junior College. He served with the Air Force during World War II, assigned to information and education as well as intelligence, was South Atlantic correspondent for Yank, edited several AAF publications, and has been associated with a U.S. government agency in a public relations capacity.

THE RYERSON PRESS, TORONTO, CANADA

Registered Trademark, Library Service, Inc.*

CYPRESS AND ACACIA. By Vernon Watkins. (New Directions) $3.50
This is a collection of poems by the Welsh poet, who is widely read in England and had received the praise of Dylan Thomas and Richard Eberhart, as well as the Guinness Poetry Prize. The theme of birth and death is at the heart of most of the poems in this volume. The poet handles Biblical and mythical images deftly to illuminate the spiritual existence of man. 59-13173

DICTIONARY OF DISCOVERIES. By I. A. Langnas. (Phil. Lib'y) $5.00
This is an interesting reference book, which tells of the lives of explorers, instrument makers, and cartographers who made geographical discoveries possible all over the world. A number of courageous pioneers who have received little fame are included. These short biographies are conveniently arranged in dictionary form. Men of all nations are represented.

DICTIONARY OF MODERN BALLET. Edited by Selma Jean Cohen, et al. (Tudor) $7.95
This is a beautiful dictionary for the ballet enthusiast. The fascinating history of the dance emerges from this systematic collection of facts about choreographers, designers, musicians, dancers, and ballerinas of many countries and behind the scenes information about the decor, costumes, and manuscripts of famous ballets. With many color illustrations.

EASY GAMES FOR YOUNGSTERS. By Geraldine Webb Settle. (Denison) $3.00
A collection of new indoor-outdoor games for children from kindergarten through fourth grade. Parents, teachers, and youth leaders can adapt these word, story, and number games; ball, tag, and other activity games for school, clubs, or home parties. Illustrated with black and white drawings.

EDOUARD MANET: Watercolors and Pastels. Selected by Kurt Martin. (Abrams) $27.50
Delicate and yet strangely intense, this collection of watercolors and pastels is indicative of the nature of the artist. The introduction examines the relationship between the work of the artist and events in his life. With notes on the 24 color plates, a biographical chronology, and a bibliography. Reproductions are matted with grey, black, and white. 59-836

EMIL NOLDE. By Werner Haftman. (Abrams) $15.00
Written by a leading art historian, this book is the result of long period of studying the art of Emil Nolde, which differs in many ways from the paintings of other German Expressionists. An intense feeling of spiritual agony characterizes many of his paintings, while a dreamy, peaceful, fantastic quality is the mood of others. This book has 55 color plates and 19 black-and-white reproductions of Nolde's paintings. 59-8845

ENCYCLOPEDIA OF PHILOSOPHY. By Wilhelm Hegel. (Phil. Lib'y) $6.00
This volume represents the reflections of a maturing philosopher. Arranged under the following headings are many of his concepts and theories: the philosophical sciences, the logic of philosophy, quality, quantity, essence, the concept, the idea, the philosophy of nature, the philosophy of the spirit, and absolute spirit.

EVIDENCE & INFERENCE. Edited by Daniel Lerner. (Free Pr.) $4.00
The essayists who have contributed to this volume discuss evidence and inference in law, history, nuclear research, social research, medicine, psychotherapy, and the modern theory of knowledge. Together these essays present an analysis of the ways in which psychology and statistics have changed the types of questions asked, as well as the methods of inquiry. With a bibliography. 59-12065

THE FOGGY FOGGY DEW & DEWEY DEATH. By Charity Blackstock. (London House & Maxwell) $3.95
Two mystery novels. The first tells how professorial Andrew Mallory becomes involved in a murder and the affairs of the beautiful Emmi of Mittel-Europa. The second reveals how Barbara, of Inter-Libraries Despatch, discovered a series of murders.

FROM CEDAR MOUNTAIN TO ANTIETAM. By Edward Stackpole. (Stackpole) $5.95
The military events from Cedar Mountain to Antietam in the summer of 1862 are recounted and interpreted in this volume which focuses on the military strategy of Lincoln and Lee. The text is illustrated with 38 battle maps and 50 contemporary drawings. With an appendix and index. 59-14891

GAMES FOR ALL AGES AND HOW TO USE THEM. By Marjorie Wackerbarth & Lillian Graham. (Denison) $3.95
This is a book of games for every occasion, quiet games, physical and mental games, and games from various countries. There are games to brighten any party, as well as games to amuse the child who must play alone. In all, this book includes descriptions and simple instructions for approximately 450 games. With an index. 59-13578

THE GARDEN FLOWERS OF CHINA. By H. L. Li. (Ronald) $6.50
This is a fascinating book for both orientalists and botanists, for in giving the history of each plant, it includes legend and symbolism, as well as scientific information. American gardeners may be surprised to learn peonies, chrysanthemums, and many other plants grown here have their origins in China. Scientific names and botanical descriptions are given. Many illustrations, among which are Chinese floral prints, enhance the book. With a bibliography and index. 59-10139

THE GERMAN PHOTOGRAPHIC ANNUAL. Edited by Wolf Strache & Otto Steinert. (Ziff-Davis) $7.95
The 1960 edition of annual that features the most outstanding contributions from German photographers. There are notes on the 112 plates and essays on the trends in photography. 56-4838

HAPPY DAYS WITH JACKIE, by Augusta Berthiaume. (Denison) $2.75
Enjoyable and homey stories about a little girl, Jackie, and her family—and her experiences at play, school, on her Uncle's farm, welcoming the new baby, and other activities around the year. Twelve stories in all, illustrated in yellow, black, and white by Howard Lingberg.

HISTORY OF ROME. By Theodore Mommsen. (Phil. Lib'y) $6.00
Although Mommsen has long been considered an excellent historian, the size of his history unfortunately frightened away many readers. This abridgement maintains the merits of the original, the pragmatic approach to understanding the past, the knowledge of laws, the fine scholarship, the psychological insight into the acts of the Romans, and a style of clear, precise prose. With an index.

HOLD CALM THE MARE! By Leon Dinkin. (Joe Connor) Paper, $1.95
Written by one of the leaders in a new style of poetry in the San Francisco Renaissance, these poems are a link between bourgeois and beatnik ideology. Some of the poems reveal the inner conflicts of the poet after his divorce, while others reveal disgust with a materialistic nuclear age. With illustrations by Gustave Dore.

HUNTING PRONGHORN ANTELOPE. By Bert Popowski. (Stackpole) $6.50
This book, filled with facts about the history, characteristics, and habitat of the pronghorn antelope, gives many tips to the hunter about this species which is unique to North America. It also relates the fascinating success story of Daniel Nowlin, leader in the pronghorn recovery program, and Paul Russell, originator of a method of live-trapping and transplanting herds. With photographs and a list of trophies. 59-14383

THE INDEPENDENT SUDAN: The History of a Nation. By Mekki Shibeika. (Speller) $7.50

INGENIOUS MATHEMATICAL PROBLEMS AND METHODS. By L. A. Graham. (Dover) Paper, $1.45
This is a book to challenge and delight those who love mathematics. The book is filled with mathematical puzzles (many are original), which were selected because they can be solved by using a variety of methods —logic, high school mathematics, number theory, statistics, compass geometry, networks, and inversion. A section of challenging quickies is included, as well as mathematical nursery rhymes.

JAMES ENSOR. By Paul Haesaerts. (Abrams) $17.50
The reproductions in black-and-white and color of Ensor's engravings, drawings, watercolors, and paintings in this book represent the most complete presentation of Ensor's work ever published. The text is an analysis of the work and a recounting of the life of the artist. The paintings of masks, skeletons, and demonic figures are spellbinding, and it is no wonder that they fascinated and influenced many modern artists. With an index. 58-9032

JIMMY, A LITTLE PUP. By Clarence Jonk. (Denison) $2.75
Keeping up with his bigger brothers and sisters was too much for Jimmy, the littlest pup, so one day he went into the woods and had a wonderful time playing with a squirrel. When night came his playmate disappeared into a tree and Jimmy was alone and lost—until the friendly moon came up. Illustrated by Hugh Berta.

JOHN DEWEY: Dictionary of Education. Edited by Ralph B. Winn. (Phil. Lib'y) $3.75
This is a collection of serious and casual statements about education, gathered from the writings of John Dewey. The ideas are arranged in dictionary form under such topics as abstraction, open-mindedness, security, tolerance, and the world.

LIGHTNING MEDITATIONS. By Ronald Knox. (Sheed & Ward) $3.00
Each page of this volume has a meditation, which is all the more meaningful and sharp for its brevity. The lightning in these meditations refers to the brilliant play of the mind, the wit nourished by constant readings of the classics, by the author. Sometimes wisely critical, these short sermons are at other times mild and comforting to the hurried and the harassed. Imprimatur. 59-12090

THE LIMITS OF FREEDOM. By David Fellman. (Rutgers Univ. Pr.) $2.75
Beginning with the premise that none of our civil rights are absolute, the author discusses in detail the limitations of religious freedom, the right to communicate, and the right to talk politics in the United States. A Supreme Court case which involves a faith-healing cult is examined as an illustration of the fine line between the freedoms and their limits. With notes. 59-14425

LODGING FOR A NIGHT. Edited by Roy Park. (Duncan Hines) Paper, $1.50
This is the 25th anniversary edition of a favorite book for travelers. Arranged according to state and city, it lists 5,000 recommended places to spend a night, including motels, motor courts, and inns, as well as hotels. Location, rates, telephone numbers, services, and accomodations are given for each entry. Canada, Mexico, and the Caribbean Islands are included.

MA POOS AND THE FABULOUS WHIMPLEGOOSE. By Clarence Jonk. (Denison) $2.75
Much better at story-telling than mouse-catching, Ma Poos told her hungry kittens about the fabulous "whimplegoose" with two bodies and more wings and legs than you could imagine. When they finally found one of the "rare birds"—it was a surprise to everybody, except the imaginative mother cat.

MAC, THE FIRE FIGHTER. By Edna A. Anderson. (Denison) $2.75
Little Mac, the cocker spaniel, wasn't afraid of noises, cats, or anything, and was ready to challenge all visitors. When he sniffed smoke one day, his barking saved his favorite lady, but when he tried to fight the whole fire by himself, he found ferociy no help and learned it was sometimes smart to be afraid.

THE MASTER BANQUET AND PARTY BOOK. By Beatrice Plumb. (Denison) $3.95
The ideas for parties, banquets, socials, picnics, bazaars, teas, and luncheons will help any hostess achieve that successful party that guests will long remember with pleasure. This book features suggestions for novel engagement announcements, Mother's Day celebrations, summer outings, monthly church suppers, and the procedure of banquet planning. 59-9846

MASTER DRAWINGS 19TH & 20TH CENTURIES: From the Collection of the Budapest Museum of Fine Arts. Selected by Dennes Pataky. (Abrams) $25.00
A wealth of beauty is contained in this volume of drawings by Ingres, Corot, Rodin, Van Gogh, Renoir, Degas, Toulouse-Lautrec, Gauguin, Picasso, and other masters of watercolor and oil painting. An introduction discusses the changes in drawing style in the past two centuries and gives the history of the drawing collection of the Budapest Museum. With 94 reproductions in the original color. 59-8844

THE MIRACLE OF IRELAND. Edited by Daniel-Rops. (Helicon) $4.50
The story of Ireland between the fifth and eighth centuries is the story of Celtic Christianity, of the miracle of great faith. The essayists who have contributed to this book pay tribute to the poetry and courage of the acts of many men who lived in Ireland during the Dark Ages. Illustrated with many photographs. Imprimatur. 59-615

MODERN CHEMICAL MAGIC. By John Lippy, Jr. & Edward Palder. (Stackpole) $3.95
This book contains over 250 tricks which utilize easily obtained chemicals. They can add excitement to a chemistry lecture, a home party, and a magician's repertoire. Included are chapters on chemical magic with liquids, dry ice, invisible inks, luminous paints, etc. Illustrated. 59-14380

MODIGLIANI. By Franco Russoli. (Abrams) $15.00
This book answers the need for a fresh approach to the paints of Modigliani. The distortion and elongation of the figures gives portraits and nudes a subtle, delicate expression. With comments, the 36 large reproductions in full color and 10 drawings in black-and-white are representative of the intense young artist, who died at the age of thirty-six. 59-14795

MOVIE TECHNIQUES FOR THE ADVANCED AMATEUR. By George Regnier. (Amphoto) $4.95
From the glimmer of an idea to the completion of a fine amateur movie, the author gives detailed instructions and many suggestions. Scripting, shooting, lighting, and editing are a few of the topics discussed and illustrated. Specific information about the equipment of the American movie maker is also given. 59-10305

MYSTIC WONDERLANDS. By Mabel Otis Robinson. (Denison) $3.50
A study of caves written for young people, this combines basic facts about speleology with information on some of America's scenic wonders and on the history of mankind. Included are sketches of cave homes of ancient peoples and data on various types of caves and on America's famous national caves—Carlsbad Caverns, Shenandoah Valley caves, etc. Illustrated.

NORMAL CHILDREN AND MOTHERS. By Dr. Irving D. Harris. (Free Pr.) $6.00
The author suggests helpful means by which mothers can aid rather than hinder their children's emotional growth and illustrates his remarks with case histories from his files. With tables and an index. 58-12849

OLD ANGUS, THE UNHAPPY BAKER, By Clarence Jonk. (Denison) $3.00
Plump old Angus envied the rich farmers who brought his three-penny pies, so when a pie-loving, pig-weary farmer came along, Angus happily sold his bakeshop and wasted no time in buying a cart and mare, pigs, and a farm. But greedy mice almost wrecked his plans, until help came, just in time. Drawings by Newell R. Minick.

ORPHANS IN GETHSEMANE: A Novel of the Past in the Present. By Vardis Fisher. (Swallow) $10.00
The concluding novel in the author's Testament of Man series. It concludes the entirely written tetralogy and continues the story of Vridar Hunter. An amazingly ambitious search for truth, it demands much of the reader but has much food for thought to give him in return. Its 987 pages present a novelist's own philosophy. 60-6113

OSCAR, THE CURIOUS OSTRICH, By Ben B. Berkey. (Denison) $2.50
When curious little Oscar digs his head into a deep sand hole, he is amazed to see that he has found the way to a beautiful land. Answering the call of adventure, he enters the paradise of "Ostrichville," has some extraordinary experiences, but after a narrow escape decides there's no place like home. Illustrated in brown and white.

THE PLACE OF VALUE IN A WORLD OF FACTS. By Wolfgang Kohler. (Meridian) Paper, $1.95
This is a philosophical book by the author of "The Mentality of Apes" and "Gestalt Psychology." The author believes that the study of value has an important place in the sciences. By "value," he means that there are existing patterns of behavior, which are superior to other life patterns. He fears that science, if it is based only on the facts of experiments and is "valueless," may destroy the world. With an index. 59-12907

POPES THROUGH THE AGES. By Joseph Brusher, S.J. (Van Nost.) $14.95
This handsome book combines painstaking research with a rich collection of paintings, gathered from museum galleries and the archives of the Vatican. To be found in this lavishly illustrated volume are the biographies and portraits of the Popes, from Saint Peter to Pope John XXIII. With an index. 59-14622

PORKADOT, THE CITY-BRED PIG, By Phillip O. Steinberg. (Denison) $2.75
Betty was delighted when farmer Turner gave her a polka-dot colored piglet, because that was just what she wanted for a pet. Betty and her friend Debra treated Porkadot just like a favorite doll until he grew into a 250-pound hog—and Betty came up with a unique idea for his future.

THE RAMPAGING HERD. By Ramon F. Adams. (Univ. of Okla. Pr.) $15.00
This unique bibliography lists and describes about 2,600 pamphlets and books about men and events in the cattle industry. Included in this compilation are books, old and new, obscure and familiar, fictional and historical. There are representative titles for the various cattle industry areas. Index. 59-7957

A READER'S GUIDE TO GREAT TWENTIETH CENTURY ENGLISH NOVELS. By Frederick Karl & Marvin Magalaner. (Noonday) Paper, $1.65—Cloth, $5.00
After examining the works of Conrad, Lawrence, Joyce, Forster, Woolf, and Huxley, the author discusses them as representative writers of the twentieth century. With a bibliography and index. 59-15127

A READER'S GUIDE TO JAMES JOYCE. By William York Tindall. (Noonday) $5.00
This book answers many of the questions asked by readers, who approach the works of Joyce with enthusiasm and puzzlement. The author discusses "Dubliners" (which are not so simple as they seem at first), "Stephen Hero," "Exiles," "Portrait of the Artist . . .," "Ulysses," and "Finnegans Wake" and points out significant relationships, themes, and recurring images. With a bibliography and index. 59-15126

RELIGION IN ISRAEL TODAY: The Relationship Between State and Religion. By Joseph Badi. (Bookman) $3.50
The author grapples with the complexities of the relationship between the laws of the Torah and the laws of the state of Israel, the orthodox and non-orthodox groups, and Christianity and Mohammedanism and the government of Israel. He suggests some policies to avoid conflict and states that the need for reform in both law and religion is great. With notes, glossary, appendices, bibliography, and index. 59-14626

RITUAL MAGIC. By E. M. Butler. (Noonday) Paper, $1.65
This is a study of the origins of the Faustian myth, which the author traces through Akkadian inscriptions, Graeco-Egyption papyri, the Kabbala of the Jews, and medieval and modern rites and ceremonies. With illustrations, a bibliography, and index. 59-15133

ROOTS OF CONTEMPORARY AMERICAN ARCHITECTURE. Edited by Lewis Mumford. (Grove) Paper, $2.95—Cloth, $6.00
Collected in this book of essays by twenty-nine writers are some of the best comments on American Architecture. The essays are introduced by the editor, who believes that a study of the origins of American architecture is not only fascinating, but necessary to an understanding of current trends. Included are Wright, Sullivan, and Thoreau. With an index. 59-14138

SEAPORTS AND PEOPLE OF EUROPE: From the Earliest Times to the Present. By Addie Clark Harding, as told to Garnett Laidlaw Eskew. (Ericksson-Taplinger) $6.00
History and legend are combined in this telling of the story of seaports and sailors from the days of the Phoenicians to the present. Naples, Genoa, Venice, Lisbon, Marseilles, and Gothenberg are a few of the ports described in detail. The book is beautifully illustrated with black-and-white photos and reproductions of seascapes. With an index. 59-14353

THE SECOND TREASURY OF CONTEMPORARY HOUSES. Selected by the editors of Architectural Record. (F. W. Dodge) $7.75

Obituaries

ALBERT CAMUS, one of the leading figures in modern French literature, died in France on January 4 at the age of 46. He was killed when the sports car in which he was riding skidded off a wet roadway near Sens and smashed into a tree.

The writer was a passenger in a Facel Vega driven by his publisher's nephew, Michel Gallimard, who was hurt in the crash. Mr. Gallimard's wife and 18-year-old daughter, also passengers in the vehicle, were injured when they were thrown clear as the auto hit the tree. All four were returning to Paris from the south of France.

In 1957 Mr. Camus was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature. He became the second youngest man in history to be honored with that prize, the youngest being Rudyard Kipling, who received it in 1907. Best known for his novels "The Fall," "The Plague," and "The Stranger," Mr. Camus founded an anti-Nazi newspaper, Combat, which played an active part in the French resistance during World War II and emerged after the war as a prominent daily paper. In the years following the second world war Mr. Camus became identified, with Jean-Paul Sartre, as a champion of existentialism. More recently, however, he had been moving away from the existentialist philosophy toward a more humanistic outlook.

NEVIL SHUTE, popular British novelist, author of the bestselling "On the Beach," died in Australia on January 12 after suffering a stroke. He was 60.

Death came at a hospital in Melbourne, where Mr. Shute had been rushed following his collapse on his farm at Langwarring. In the past few years a heart condition had forced the writer to cut down on many activities he loved, including flying. He was by training an aeronautical engineer and had helped to design the airship R100, which he twice flew over the Atlantic in 1930. He was a fellow of the Royal Aeronautical Society.

Mr. Shute, whose real name was Nevil Shute Norway, achieved great success as an author in his native England. Besides "On the Beach" and "The Far Country," both made into movies, he wrote "Marazan," "What Happened to the Corbetts," "Pastoral," "Requiem for a Wren," "A Town Like Alice," "In the Wet," and "Beyond the Black Stump." His autobiography was titled "Slide Rule."

Hillside, N. J.

Dear Mr. Ludlow:

We have been receiving orders for GENERALS IN GRAY (Ezra J. Warner) based on the price of 6.50 as listed in the December issue of Book Buyer's Guide. If possible, please correct this in your next issue--the actual price is $7.50.

We appreciate your listing of the book. The orders we have been receiving at 6.50 (nowhere else has it been listed at this price) certainly indicate that your publication is used by booksellers to a large extent.

Sincerely yours,

Richard L. Wentworth

Dear Mr. Short:

We wish you could hear the compliments which have been paid "The Christmas Book Buyer's Guide" in our shop these last few weeks.

It's attractive format and ease of reference has made a good impression on our customers; while we feel certain it has stimulated sales.

Having tbe publisher's name at the end of each resume is a great help in speeding up ordering should we not have the book on hand.

Sincerely yours,

Ottalie K. Williams

SPIRITUAL CLASSICS
BY PARAMAHANSA YOGANANDA

Autobiography of a Yogi

"These pages reveal, with incomparable strength and clarity, a fascinating life, a personality of unheard-of greatness. The author undertakes the unique task of instructing the Western reader in the practical application of yoga, setting the example in his own life. In these pages is undeniable proof that only the mental and spiritual striving of man has lasting value, and that he can conquer all material obstacles by inward strength. We must credit this Autobiography with the power to bring about a spiritual revolution." – "Schleswig-Holsteinische Tagespost," daily newspaper of Germany. $4.00

Whispers from Eternity

A book of prayers. "For depth of feeling and beauty of expression, the author's poems have been compared to those of Rabindranath Tagore." – New York Sun. $3.00

The Master Said

Wit and wisdom of a modern world teacher. Practical advice in solving and dissolving daily problems.
